Revenue Men Make Raid On Hoffmann Brewery

Arrest Peter Fuss, Manager, and Four Others Found on Premises—Two Men Were Hidden in Recess in Wall in Subcellar—Agents Seized What They Said Was Whiskey and Alcohol, and Will Destroy 500 Gallon Still.

This morning Revenue Agents McCay and Mulholland and Policemen Urban Healey and Hess, of the Kingston police force, raided the Jacob Hoffmann Brewery at No. 51 Hone street, where the revenue men placed Peter Fuss, manager of the brewery, under arrest, as well as four other men found on the premises. All five were to be arraigned later in the afternoon before United States Commissioner Arthur C. Connelly.

The four others arrested were Fred Plank and John Conforti, who gave their address as 51 Hone street; John Hoffman of No. 2 Russell street, and Joseph Borho, of No. 133 Spring street.

Visited Brewery Tuesday.

According to Agent McCay, who led the raiding party, he and Agent Mulholland visited the brewery Tuesday night and their visit led them to seek a search warrant this morning which was issued by United States Commissioner Connelly.

Chief of Police J. Allan Wood, at the request of the agents, assigned Officers Healey and Hess to assist them.

Explored the Brewery.

The raid was made without any undue excitement and those living in the vicinity were unaware of anything unusual occurring at the brewery.

After searching the outside buildings for a still which they believed to be in operation, and not meeting with success, Agent McCay decided to explore the brewery building.

Down in the Depths.

The cellars under the brewery extended into the ground for a depth of fully seventy-five feet, and when the supply of matches gave out to light the way, the agents returned to their automobile for search lights to furnish light through the subterranean depths of the cellars which extend the full length of the building and burrow deeply underground.

Two Men Hid in Niche.

In the subcellar, which was reached by passing down a flight of stone stairs, the searchers found pools of water here and there on the floor and without lights would have stepped into the pools which were in some places at least a foot deep.

It was in this subcellar deep underground that Agent McCay found what he said was a five hundred gallon still, and which he stated would later be destroyed.

As he played the searchlight around the cellar walls he saw what looked like a bundle of rags stuffed into the niche.

Looking closer he saw it was the figure of a man and ordered him to come out.

Out Came the Men.

Instead of one man, two men crawled out from the niche in the wall. They gave their names as Plank and Conforti, and said they had been living at the brewery for the past fourteen months and had come here from New York.

Afraid of Being Shot.

Questioned as to why they attempted to hide in the niche they said that they were afraid that the officers would shoot first and investigate afterward if they heard anything moving in the cellar darkness.

Only One Still Found.

According to Agent McCay, only one still was found and that was in the subcellar. He said they found evidence that some of the wooden rats in the old brewery had been somewhat repaired.

Found Liquids.

Agent McCay said they also had found a barrel of alcohol and several gallons of what he said was whiskey.

Charges Lodged Against Men.

The charge lodged by the officers against Fuss and the other five men was that of illegally possessing whiskey and alcohol.

Lights Needed in Search.

The old brewery had not been in operation fully thirty years and some of the old rats and tanks showed that they had not been used in years.

The top floor of the old brewery is used by persons who had built their nests in the eaves and had made themselves at home.

It was not until the search was started in the cellar and subcellar under the big brewery that lights were needed to avoid stepping into darkness that dropped steeply down into other darkness until a flashlight showed the floor of the cellar many feet below.

No Trouble Experienced.

Mr. Fuss and the others placed under arrest made no attempt to resist the officers and when Mr. Fuss was shown the search warrant, he

400 Soldiers Slain at Peking

London, April 21.—Four hundred soldiers, comprising the presidential Guard at Peking, were slain by the People's army a few hours before the army evacuated the Chinese capital, a Shanghai dispatch said today.

The guard was mowed down by a group of machine guns before they could escape.

The reason for the massacre, it was stated, was the shooting by the guard of a score of Chinese students who staged a demonstration before the president's palace in protest to the president's yielding to an ultimatum of the foreign powers.

Plans Restoration Of Eternal City

Mussolini Inaugurates Program for Restoration of Rome by Razing Slum Dwellings—Present Financial Condition of Italy a Drawback.

Rome, April 21.—With a magnificence of gesture worthy of a grand ideal, Premier Mussolini today inaugurated his long-heralded program for the restoration of the Eternal City to the grandeur which was Rome's in the golden days of Augustus.

While the movement for a new and greater Rome was in progress in the Eternal City, all Italy was also celebrating Colonial Day. Flags were flying all over the land and everywhere there were public demonstrations.

Premier Mussolini spent a busy day. At 10 o'clock from Capitoline Hill he delivered an address on the necessity for colonial expansion for Italy, similar speeches being delivered in all the large towns of Italy. The speech was broadcast throughout the land and a special message was transmitted for Italian schoolboys. At one o'clock this afternoon the premier appeared upon the balcony of Chigi Palace and received the homage of thousands of Fascists. At two o'clock he accompanied King Victor Emanuel to the new race-track and participated in the opening ceremonies.

The drive for the restoration of Rome was signaled by the starting of the razing of the slum dwellings which disfigure the ancient Marcellus Theatre.

Although the city was founded in the faraway days of the eighth century the Christian era, April 21 has been accepted as the traditional birthday and thus today was chosen for the formal beginning of a Twentieth Century renaissance.

To Signor Cremonesi, governor of Rome, has been given the modern imperial mandate "to liberate the masterful temples of Christian Rome from the profane parasitical constructions which now cling to them," thus making the capital city once more "appear as a marvel to all the peoples of the world—well ordered and powerful, as it was in the time of the First Empire of Augustus."

Mussolini's vision of restoration is indeed great—greater by far than the present financial resources of the country. Rather less than $4,000,000 is in hand for immediate use. But the plan is to provide continuing appropriations so that the work now being undertaken may not halt until Rome is again the architectural marvel of the whole world.

COMMANDER BOOTH MAY UNDERGO OPERATION

She may have to undergo an immediate operation, according to attending physicians.

London Celebrates Birth of Princess

London, April 21.—Booming of cannon in Hyde Park today announced to London the birth of a royal princess to the Duchess of York. The child was born at 2:40 this morning.

News of the birth arrived too late for publication in the morning papers but the tidings spread rapidly by word of mouth. Flags were run up on public buildings and private residences. By 9 o'clock London was festive with Union Jacks fluttering to celebrate the event.

The Hyde Park salute consisted of a salvo of forty-one guns.

A bulletin, issued by physicians at noon, read as follows:

"The Duchess of York has had some rest since the arrival of her daughter. Her Royal Highness and the infant princess are making very satisfactory progress."

It was stated that the treatment advised by Sir George Blacker was employed and proved a great success.

The first royal visitor in Bruton street was Princess Mary. She brought a sheaf of red carnations.

The Home Secretary, Sir William Joynson, was summoned to the home of the Duke of York, in Bruton street, in order that the birth be officially registered.

According to precedents, the child will rank as the fourth lady of the land, and will be addressed as Her Royal Highness. She will be preceded only by the Queen, Princess Mary and the Duchess of York.

Persons who had hoped that the child would be a son expressed disappointment but all matters of state were submerged in the King's delight in his new grandchild.

The news was telegraphed to the Prince of Wales at Biarritz, who replied immediately congratulating the mother and father. Congratulations have already begun flooding in upon the couple from all the capitals of the world, and from all the royal families of Europe.

Except for a slight cold the Duchess is in excellent health. She had attended the theatre a few days ago.

Dry Law Doesn't Extend 12 Miles

Treaties May Give Coast Guardsmen Right to Search Bootleg Vessels, But Laws Don't Extend That Far, Says Court.

New York, April 21.—The jurisdiction of the prohibition law, or any other Federal law, does not extend as far as the twelve-mile limit, the United States circuit court of appeals held in a decision today.

On this opinion, the court dismissed seizure proceedings brought by the government against the Sagtind, a Norwegian ship, and the Diamantina, a British vessel. The Sagtind was seized 10½ miles off the coast and the Diamantina 22 miles off.

The decision was written by Judge Charles Hough and concurred in by Judges Martin and Henry W. Rogers.

The court, however, did not pass on the power of congress to prescribe a twelve-mile limit.

In its decision, the court ruled that treaties with Great Britain, Norway and other countries permitting the United States to seize bootleg vessels "at any point within an hour's sailing distance" to the shore were not "self-executing." In other words, it was explained, they may give Coast Guardsmen the right to board foreign vessels in search for liquor but the Federal laws do not extend any such distance from shore.

The communication was ordered filed.

Aldermen Believe Daylight Saving Up to Legislature

Opinion of Common Council Voiced by Alderman DeGarmo in Written Communication Filed Tuesday Evening—Legislature Could Repeal Law Under Which Cities Adopt Daylight Saving Time.

That those who oppose Daylight Saving should take the matter up with the state legislature and endeavor to have it repeal Section 91 of the General Municipal Law, which provides for Daylight Saving time, was the opinion of Kingston's common council as expressed in a written communication submitted at the common council session Tuesday evening at the city hall. All of the aldermen were present with the exception of Alderman Fox of the Fifth ward, who was unable to attend.

Why Mayor Called Session.

Why it was necessary to hold a special meeting of the common council that evening was explained in a communication from Mayor Morris Block which read: "I am informed that the common council at its meeting for the purpose of a public hearing on Daylight Saving ordinance intended to adjourn until April 20, but through an oversight such adjournment was not taken, therefore, I hereby call a special meeting of the common council for the purpose of transacting the ordinary business of the council the same as though said meeting was held pursuant to adjournment of said council." Mayor Block, who was present, said he believed the meeting should be held as some might say the council was trying to dodge the Daylight Saving issue.

Council on Daylight Saving.

Alderman DeGarmo submitted the following written communication which was filed as, according to President Dempsey, it expressed the opinion of the entire common council on the Daylight Saving question: "The common council at a public hearing received petitions signed by a large number of people in the city of Kingston asking for continuance of the ordinance providing for Daylight Saving time. Members of this board have interviewed many citizens of the city as to their preference for Standard time or Daylight Saving time, and a large majority are in favor of Daylight Saving time. Earnest pleas by members of the Farm Bureau have been made for Standard time. The leader in an editorial after the public hearing points out that the proper place for an application for the repeal of the Daylight Saving time is the New York state legislature, and also that the cities of Greater New York, Yonkers, Newburgh, Poughkeepsie, Hudson and Albany and many villages with all of which the city of Kingston maintains intimate social and commercial relations will have Daylight Saving time; that it would result in great confusion if the city of Kingston repealed the ordinance creating Daylight Saving time and placed this city out of step with other cities and villages in New York state."

"The Hon. Millard Davis, president of the Farm Bureau is a member of the state legislature and if the Granges and farmers throughout the state are desirous of discontinuing Daylight Saving time, the matter should be brought up before the New York state legislature and efforts made to repeal section 91 of the General Municipal Law which provides for Daylight Saving time."

"It is the opinion of the alderman of the First ward that no action should be taken by this body at this time."

The communication was ordered filed.

New Time Starts Sunday.

As the present Daylight Saving ordinance still stands, Kingston will automatically adopt the new time Sunday morning when it goes into effect in cities and towns that have adopted Daylight Saving.

Four Killed in Cleveland Fights

Cleveland, Ohio, April 21.—Four men were dead today, one of them a patrolman, and another officer was in a hospital with a bullet wound, as the result of a series of shooting affrays here last night.

The dead are: Patrolman William Borgman, 37, Joseph Flighter, 23, a "sheik bandit."

Gutseppl Marchetti, 29, a salesman, William Jones, 40, a negro, Detective Harry Hotchkiss, 29, was shot in the thigh.

Borgman was slain when he walked into a United Cigar Store after Detective Hotchkiss and Joseph Flighter, identified as the bandit who has been holding up numerous cigar stores, had shot each other down in a gun duel. The bandit, laying on the floor fatally wounded by Hotchkiss' fire, turned when Borgman entered with gun in hand and blazed away at the patrolman. In the exchange of shots a bullet struck Borgman in the neck and he fell dead.

Marchetti was shot down by a fellow Italian in a quarrel.

Jones was killed in a scuffle with John Hart, 29, another negro, over the possession of a revolver, which exploded while the men were fighting over it. Hart was arrested.

Asks Hearing on Referendum Bill

Rev. O. R. Miller Requests Governor to Give Hearing on Karle-Phelps Bill—Drys Will Start Court Proceedings if Bill is Signed.

Albany, N. Y., April 21.—Gov. Smith was asked today by the New York State Civic League to give a hearing on the Karle-Phelps bill proposing a referendum on whether congress should be asked to modify the Volstead Law.

The request for the hearing was made by the Rev. O. R. Miller, of Albany, superintendent of the Civic League. In his letter to the governor, the Rev. Mr. Miller wrote, in part:

"We think there are grave reasons for the honor of the state and the welfare of the people why this bill should not be signed and for the welfare of the nation at large."

It was indicated at the Executive Chamber that the governor would grant the request for a hearing on the referendum bill.

Drys May Start Suit.

The drys were confident today, however, that the governor would approve the bill. The drys have contended that the referendum would be unconstitutional and they have broadly intimated they would start a court action in the hope of preventing its submission to the voters, should the measure be approved by the governor.

Assemblyman Jenks, Broome, Republican, and chief spokesman for the prohibition advocates at the Capitol, declared the submission of the referendum could be blocked by court action which, he said, could be started by any taxpayer.

A report reached the Capitol today that the drys, in the event they decide to fight the referendum in the courts, will retain Louis Marshall, of New York, noted constitutional lawyer. In a statement which he issued last week, Marshall said he believed the proposal invalid.

Wants Miller Ejected.

A short time after the Rev. Mr. Miller filed his request with the governor for a hearing on the referendum bill, Assemblyman Cuvillier, New York Democrat, asked that he be ejected from the floor of the assembly.

The Rev. Mr. Miller was talking with several Republican assemblymen in the assembly chamber, when Cuvillier rose in his seat and declared:

"Mr. Speaker, I wish you would direct the sergeant-at-arms to eject the Rev. O. R. Miller from the floor of this house. He is in here lobbying for prohibition."

"There is nothing in order now," replied Speaker McGinnis.

A roll call was being taken by the house.

When the Rev. Mr. Miller heard his name mentioned by Cuvillier, he quickly took a seat in the rear of the chamber.

Treaty Nearly Ready.

Berlin, April 21.—The Russo-German treaty is practically ready for signature. It was announced to the International News Service today by a government spokesman.

The corporation counsel if the city boards, such as the fire board and the police board, had the right to pass ordinances.

Corporation Counsel Jenkins replied that they had when it applied to matters within their jurisdiction.

Business Picking Up.

Alderman Moore of the Third ward said he would like to see the railroad committee about the city bus situation, and Alderman DeGarmo, chairman of the committee, stated that while the buses were not making any money as yet, that trade was picking up and it was said that the bus was taking trade from the trolley line.

In Session 15 Minutes.

The council then adjourned until 10 o'clock to the auditing committee and adjourned after being in session a majority of 27 yeas.

Grange Bone Dry Except For Cider For Farmers

But Strivings is Willing to Allow Cider to Others Also—Says He Represents "Farmers of America" But Was Appointed by Three Men to Uphold the Continuance of Aridity, Excepting Only Cider Moisture.

Washington, April 21.—The American farmer was pictured as an ardent friend of prohibition before the senate judiciary committee today by S. L. Strivings, master of the New York State Grange.

Strivings declared the farmers stood for law obedience and were opposed to any modification of prohibition. He was the first farm representative to appear before the committee as a witness either for wets or drys.

"The farmers voice disapproval of any attempt to modify the dry law in any way," said Strivings. "We believe in proper enforcement of the law."

"The farmers challenge the rest of the country and labor as well to conserve our national wealth and our national energy. We want to know, if saloons are to be restored, and our grains are to be put into drink instead of food, whether it isn't time for us to get some of the short hours of labor and the luxuries of life."

Julien Codman, the wet prosecuting attorney, questioned Strivings' statement that he came to represent the "farmers of America."

"The executive council of the National Grange named me to come here," said Strivings.

"How many members are on the council?"

"Three."

"Then three men named you to represent all the farmers of America?"

"Yes."

Protests Against Cider Ban.

Codman also drew from Strivings a protest against repeal of section 29 of the Volstead act, which permits farmers to manufacture cider and other fruit juices.

"You think the farmers don't want that section repealed?"

"I know they don't," said Strivings.

"Don't you think it's fair then to let the working man have his beer?"

"He can have cider, too," said Strivings.

A row opened the session today when the drys demanded three extra hours of testimony because Senator Reed, Democrat of Missouri, had used their time to cross-examine witnesses.

No decision was reached but Codman served notice he too would ask for an extension if the dry request was granted.

Volstead Act Brought Temperance.

The first witness was Oliver W. Stewart of Chicago, president of the Flying Squadron Foundation, who protested against modification of the dry law. He declared the Volstead act had brought temperance to America.

A. E. Bernstein of Cleveland, United States attorney for the northern district of Ohio, told of enforcement conditions in his district. Between January 1, 1924 and January 1, 1925, he said he prosecuted 814 cases with 1,322 defendants. Of the number, he added, he obtained 752 convictions, numbering 937 defendants, with only six acquittals.

Wouldn't Eliminate Jury Trials.

Bernstein took exception to the recommendation of United States Attorney Emory R. Buckner of New York, that jury trials should be eliminated as the only plan by which the Volstead act could be enforced.

Bernstein said he gave every defendant the right to a jury trial and yet he effectively enforced the dry law.

Bernstein vigorously opposed a return of beer and wine.

"This is not a beer drinking nation," said the Cleveland attorney.

Codman asked what the price of bootleg liquor is in Cleveland and Bernstein said he didn't know.

These Ideas of Prohibition.

Another prohibitionist to testify was Dr. William Sheafe Chase, vice president of the National Civic League. His organization, he said, considered it "unwise and unpractical to say that prohibition cannot be enforced."

Will City Provide New Playground?

Admiral Higginson Says Public Works Board Should Own a Playground to Take the Place of Can-field Park.

22 Pearl street, Kingston, N. Y.,
April 20, 1926.
To the Editor of The Freeman,
Sir:

The sale of the Canfield Playground announced in last evening's Freeman creates a situation calling for immediate action on the part of the board of public works to provide for the children of the 11th and 13th wards another playground when Can-field Park is dismantled of its playground apparatus.

I am told that it was once the intention of the board of public works to purchase Canfield Park for a playground but that this intention was abandoned by a subsequent administration on the score of economy and now whatever money was expended by the board of public works for repairs for playground purposes is lost.
The logical conclusion seems to be that it is both unbusinesslike and uneconomical for the city to expend money on private property for playground purposes, when in case of sudden eviction all improvements to the property accrue to the private owner.
It is a better policy and cheaper for the city to own its own playgrounds.

There will be a meeting of the board of public works on April 27th at which the subject of playgrounds and playground leadership will be given a hearing and at which those interested in playgrounds and the civic welfare of children are cordially invited to attend.

There should be in my opinion enough municipal playgrounds and swimming pools in Kingston so distributed as to cover all demands of the surrounding area. Once established and fitted with the proper apparatus their normal annual maintenance would cover only two per cent of the appropriations for public works and would provide means for the health, happiness and freedom from mischief of a vast number of children. It is hoped that there is in our community sufficient interest in child's welfare to place Kingston on the map as a efficient playground center.

Respectfully,
FRANCIS J. HIGGINSON.

THE ARMY GETS MEDICINES.

Boston, April 21, 1776.—When the British army evacuated Boston, they left behind, among other military stores, a choice collection of medicines and surgical supplies. In one building which had been used as a hospital, arsenic had been scattered about among the most valuable medicines, rendering them useless. General Washington, before leaving for New York, assigned Dr. John Morgan to the task of assembling the useful supplies and forwarding them to New York.

Dr. Morgan immediately encountered difficulties with the Massachusetts Assembly which claimed the supplies and challenged Dr. Morgan's right to remove them. There was a sharp clash between colonial and continental authorities which ended in a decisive victory for the Continent.
When Dr. Morgan, quoting the General's directions, wrote to the Assembly:

"I flatter myself you will be very tender how you offer any insult to his orders. Under his authority I now act. If I leave any particular behind it will be from a consideration of their not being wanted for the use of the army."

That ended that. Since which, Dr.
Morgan has been assembling a noble store of medicines for the ensuing campaign. He hopes to leave no room for complaint of any scarcity of medicines, beds, blankets, pillows, rugs or other hospital stores. Twenty-six wagons heavily laden with hospital equipment and medicines have already been sent forward. The sick in the hospitals have been reduced to 60 and Dr. Morgan hopes in a fortnight to discharge all patients and close the hospitals here.

He has received word that ten packages of medicines were among the goods found in a British ship of the Halifax fleet which was captured and brought into Portsmouth, N. H.
He will set out for Portsmouth in a day or two to secure this capture. In order, as he says, "that nothing of so great value may be lost for want of looking after."

The captured British ship at Portsmouth is the brigantine Elizabeth which was taken by the Hancock Lynch and Lee of the continental navy. This is the ship that Cross Brush had loaded with goods pilfered from stores and houses in Boston.
Much Tory property was also found on the Elizabeth. Among 62 prisoners was Cross Brush himself. He will be sent to Philadelphia or New York for the kind attention of Congress. The value of the Elizabeth's cargo was 20,000 pounds sterling.

The Radio Column*LOW LOSS COILS.

Special Windings Do Not Always Make Ideal Coils.

F. M. Russell.

CORRUGATED PAPER USED IN MAKING LOW LOSS COILS

Probably there has been no part of a radio receiver that has been the subject of more attention and experiment than the so-called low loss coil.

For best results it is necessary to have a coil of low high frequency resistance and low distributed capacity.
Many methods have been employed using all types of special staggered and non-dielectric windings in order to secure low distributed capacity.
Staggered windings approximate the type of more wire in order to obtain a given inductance, and the gain resulting from reduced dielectric losses is overbalanced by the increase in resistance due to the greater length of wire. So that what has been gained in the way has been lost to a great extent in the other.

A very efficient coil may be made by forming a cylinder of good di-electric material over a form of some corrugated paper over a form of some description, corresponding to the diameter of the coil desired. Its appearance is a thin coating of shellac and placing in a moderately warm oven for about thirty minutes it will be found to be very rugged and at the same time will have a minimum dielectric loss.

THE PARALLEL DORK.

The dork, or skid-foot frog, although it was mentioned thousands of years ago by Herodotus, had been believed imaginary until an expedition last summer from the American Museum of Nutty Natural History found a few of them still in existence in the heart of the Sahara Desert.
They cannot walk, but skid up and down over the dunes, following the twentieth parallel of latitude, since it is some what wider in this region than elsewhere and can accommodate both feet at the same time. The above picture shows the twentieth parallel as it actually appears, with a dork skidding along the middle of it.

While the dork may not outwardly resemble the ordinary frog, the skin may be seen and the close break in very similar. Otherwise, the dork is quite different, the almond body and almond broad head being characteristic only of dorks. The eyes are popcorn with ink spots, and the legs and feet are toothpicks.

Hornbeck Guilty in Abduction Case

Testimony in the abduction case on Tuesday afternoon and this morning the case was concluded when C. Merritt, attorney for Calvin Hornbeck, and District Attorney Raver summed up their respective contentions in the case. The charge of the jury was concluded shortly after noon and the case submitted to the jury.

It is alleged that Calvin Hornbeck, a young man residing on Locust avenue, took one Josephine Swart, 17 years old, to Yonkers under conditions which constitute abduction and that after spending a few days in Yonkers he took her aboard a boat where they lived as man and wife for several weeks. Hornbeck denied that he had ever been on a boat or that he had ever had other than a friendly feeling toward the girl and that he took her away from home to protect her from her grandmother and an uncle.

The jury this afternoon returned a verdict of guilty. Sentence will be pronounced on Monday.

Jurors from the country were excused for the term. Jurors from the city were excused until Monday at 10 a. m.

Court adjourned until Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

The Queen of Sheba

By H. IRVING KING

(Copyright.)

EGBERT LANGTON was on duty as aide de camp to his aunt, who was making a foray on a department store. It occurred to Egbert that he wanted a pair of gloves, so he strolled over to the counter where they sold such things. The young woman who waited on him struck Egbert as being very attractive indeed. Her voice was low and well modulated, her manners easy, her dress very plain but very neat. Was she pretty? Egbert concluded that she was, and at every glance he gave her she seemed to get prettier and prettier.

Egbert was interested; he bought two pairs of gloves—and took as much time about it as he could. The other girls, a keen-eyed lot, whispered to each other: "Look at his swell nobs playing finger longer Lou at the glove counter! Queenie's made a hit!" The queen of Sheba, one of the girls had called her when she first appeared in the department store—which name had "stuck," though generally shortened for everyday use into "Queenie." On the pay roll of the establishment she was registered as Miss Margaret Ellis.

Although the girls nicknamed her they liked her immensely. She lived just as the other girls lived—that is to say with a straitened economy. And she had no "gentleman friends," as most of the others had, to vary her drab life by excursions to Coney Island and evenings at the "movies."

"Too bad," said the other girls, "Queenie ought to see some life. She could, too, if she wasn't so offish."

After that first visit to the glove counter it was marvellous the number of pairs of gloves and the number of neckties Egbert Langton was constantly wanting. Egbert learned Queenie's name and she learned his. After that it was Miss Ellis and Mr. Langton, which made it easier and the acquaintance ripened.

"Miss Ellis," said Egbert one day, "would it be presuming too much to ask to be allowed to call upon you?"

Queenie looked at him thoughtfully for a moment and then said with a smile: "In the place where I live there is no reception room—no place to receive callers."

"We might go down to Coney Island," he suggested. He had always heard that Coney Island was the delight of the shop girl.

"Yes, we might," replied Queenie. "I have never been to Coney Island. Yes—call for me at seven o'clock." And she gave him her street and number.

They had a delightful time at Coney. All of it was new to Queenie and most of it to Egbert. They took in all the shows, had their fortunes told; and were happy as two children. "Mr. Langton," said Queenie as they parted at the door of her rooming house, "you must not come to the store again. You have gloves enough now. I am sure, to last you for a long time. If you persist in coming there I shall leave and try to find another job."

Langton started to blurt out some incoherent remarks about love and marriage; but Queenie stopped him with: "Don't talk, please. I mean it. Don't come to the shop again for six months. Good-night." And she was up the steps and in at the door.

Egbert walked away meditating. He had nearly proposed marriage to a shop girl. He pictured the fury of his aristocratic relations at such an alliance. Yet wasn't that what he had been looking forward to all the time? And why shouldn't he marry her? His relations might go hang; the decision lay with Queenie. And—and—she had banished him from her presence for six months!

Egbert went off for a little run in Europe, but six months from the day of the Coney Island trip he walked into the department store—to buy a pair of gloves. A strange girl was behind the glove counter. He sought the floor walker. Miss Ellis had left the day before; he had no idea where she had gone. The floor walker interviewed the other girls. He could get no trace of Queenie—she had disappeared from her lodgings as mysteriously and completely as she had from the shop. It was a desperate and baffled young man who walked out of the department store—without buying a pair of gloves. He thought of "personal ads" in the papers, and private detectives. While meditating which of these courses to resort to he dressed himself for Mrs. Van Dunderberg's dinner, which he had promised to attend that night.

"Oh Bert, dear," said Mrs. Van Dunderberg. "I have the loveliest girl for you to take in to dinner: Kittie Clavering. She's so intellectual and so interested in social welfare work—besides being a great beauty—and she's just finished the sweetest experiment; she's been living for a year as a shop girl, just to study conditions there she is now." And the queen of Sheba—and of the glove counter—approached.

The honeymoon was over and they were beginning to feel quite like old married people when one day Egbert said: "What was it they used to call you at the department store?"

"Queenie!"

"No, the longer name."

"Oh, the queen of Sheba."

"That's it. Well, I'm King—what ever that was—and you are queen, Queenie."

"Don't talk nonsense—of course I am," replied Mrs. Langton with a warm kiss.

"EQUAL PAY FOR EQUAL WORK."

In a hotel elevator carrying passengers to a women's political club meeting in a large American city recently one woman was heard to say to another: "Just wait until women take charge of everything." What would such politically ambitious American women, and the American women now earning larger salaries than multitudes of men with families to support, have to say of the denunciation in England of like pay for men and women for the same work as a great injustice to the former? Recently at Hull assembled schoolmasters not only did this but declared that never would they serve as assistant masters under women headmistresses. "The women," one of them is quoted as saying, "are relentless in their efforts to secure equal pay, and the men will have to meet their irrational policy relentlessly."

Protest of British male teachers in such terms was hardly to be expected, for in some particulars women are more fully "emancipated" in England than in America. Certainly they have advanced further in the matter of high political office and appear to have more basis for the hope of "taking charge" in a measure than the American women whose towering ambition was voiced in the elevator. As for "equal pay for equal work," the settlement of that question in both countries must ultimately depend on whether the work is really "equal" or only nominally so. The average woman has been handicapped by conservative tradition, and always will be more or less handicapped by nature's decrees, but ultimately the extent of ability and the quality of performance, irrespective of sex, must rule in the matter of advancement and reward.

A QUESTIONABLE BILL.

The Colton bill, now before the committee on Post Office and Post Roads, requires that a newspaper or other periodical published in this country must be printed in English in order to be permitted to go in the mails as second-class matter. Its effect, if passed, would be virtual suppression of the foreign-language press, for few such publications, if any, could live without the privilege of the second-class rate. The previous Upshaw bill aimed directly at this result and the Colton bill does so indirectly. Under the caption, "A Bill to Shut Out the Light," the New York Outlook says it is difficult to conceive of anything "dillier" than the Upshaw bill and adds:

The Colton bill avoids this silliness in terms, but its effect would be equally pernicious. It would destroy one of the principal agencies by which American principles can be taught to the men and women in the United States who can not read English. It would not prevent aliens from using their own language, but simply from using it for the purpose of learning anything about America.

The conditions, contentions and propaganda preceding this country's entrance into the World War showed that there are times when our foreign-language press needs to be overlooked, but did not disprove the need of that press or its possibilities of great usefulness under ordinary conditions. The object of the Colton bill is obviously more than questionable.

Raquel Melier, Spanish dancer from Paris, caused amazement but knew what she was about when she charged $25 admission in New York. As she counted on, she packed her theatre with persons who delight in paying unheard-of prices merely in order to see themselves apart from those unable to do so. Probably the dancer's only regret is that she did not venture to charge $100, with evidence before her that she might have done even that and not away with it.

An English proverb is said to have been created by an American publisher in writing a seven volume novel of a million words. Whether anybody in this country can be expected to tackle the appalling job of reading it is not stated.

The most of little news might be put in "national drink" and be put only about two billions, even including coffee, tea, cocoa and the revenue the Treasury derived. But now, according to United States District Attorney Buckner, the revenue of the bootlegging trade alone is more than three and a half billions.

Richard Strauss, the composer, is quoted as saying that the movies are a real rival of opera. In what way is not explained. The movies satisfy the romantic longing of the masses, while the opera is merely an expensive diversion of the classes and meets a need really felt only by music-lovers.

That Body of Yours

CAUSE OF "RHEUMATISM."

The difference in the treatment of acute rheumatic infections today and of a few years back is very marked.

In other days it was thought that exposure to cold, or the accumulation of uric acid in the blood were the causes of rheumatism.

Although the organism causing the trouble is not definitely known, it is now generally admitted that rheumatism is due to some form of infection. Some cases last but a few days and never recur, others last for months and perhaps never recur, whilst others put the patient down one or twice a year.

In former days as it was believed that rheumatism came from over-eating, it was customary to "starve" the patient, in the meantime administering opium salts and other purgatives to "thin out" the blood.

Now, however, whilst certain articles of diet are restricted, nevertheless the patient is given plenty of good nourishing food so that his strength is maintained.

The idea behind this is of course sensible, because as one writer aptly points out, the successful warfare against tuberculosis was due not only to the destruction of the tubercle organism, but because the infection was a slow one, and so suitable measures to fight it were necessary. These measures as you know have nothing to do with drugs to kill the organism, but are good food, fresh air, and plenty of rest or sleep.

And so these same measures are now being used in treating these rheumatic infections, because it is felt that damage to the heart will be lessened if the patient's resistance is built up, and also by keeping him off his feet for a long period of time.

In fact this writer suggests that the day may come when, as the tuberculosis problem is solved, these sanatoriums will be converted into hospitals for the treatment of patients with rheumatic hearts. And if a scourge like tuberculosis can be overcome, it does not seem like an impossible task for our research men to get the victory over rheumatism, and organic heart ailments.

DADDY'S
EVENING
FAIRY TALE

by Mary Graham Bonner

TORTOISE AND TURTLE

"I heard two children talk the other day," said the Giant Tortoise in the zoo "and one of them said she had just been weighed."

"Yes," she told the other girl very proudly that she weighed eighty-five pounds. She seemed to think it was a tremendous weight.

"And the other little girl seemed to think so, for she said: 'I wish I weighed as much as that!'"

"That made me laugh and well it might, for I thought to myself that there was a child who was proud because of her weight, and she didn't even weigh one hundred pounds."

"Just think of being proud of weighing eighty-five pounds! It does seem strange. Less than a hundred pounds! Think of that!"

"Now I weigh over two hundred pounds! I am old and wise. I eat good food, green food is what I like, and I eat what is in season. In the summer I eat melons and tomatoes and such things that grow in the summer. Lettuce does nicely at any time."

"Yet I am not proud, and I don't boast of my weight. The keeper tells it to people he thinks would be interested in knowing, but to think that any one should boast when weighing so little! That strikes me as the most absurd and boastful kind of boasting."

"That's a funny expression," said the other tortoise "to speak of boastful kind of boasting."

"I like it," said the Giant Tortoise, "for some boasting is so great that it is actually boastful boasting. Ah, in my home on an island in the Pacific ocean I used to say to my children and grandchildren: 'Don't boast, my dears. If you're fine and if you amount to something it will be found out without your having to boast. In fact if you boast it may be thought to be boasting and nothing else.' So when the child boasted of her weight it seemed like boasting and nothing else, most assuredly."

"That's so, except that her weight was big for her age and size," said the other tortoise in a kindly voice.

The Snapping Turtle was talking now. "I must look after myself," said he, "and because I do, they say I am cross and horrid and that I deserve the name of Snapping Turtle."

"Well, you do deserve that name, don't you?" asked the Painted Turtle. "Yes, I suppose I do," said the Snapping Turtle. "Still it seems as though only the bad things were said about me and none of the good things."

"Well," said the Painted Turtle, who had come from a fresh water pond not far away, "why don't you give a lecture on your good points?"

"My good points?" questioned the Snapping Turtle. "I haven't any points good or bad."

"I mean," said the Painted Turtle, "your good qualities. When people speak of any one's good points they mean their good qualities. So won't you tell us about yourself?"

"I will," said the Snapping Turtle. "If you want to hear."

"I do," said the Painted Turtle, and the other turtles in the zoo said: "We do too."

So the Snapping Turtle looked around and he said:

"Ladies and Gentlemen, Mr. Secretary and Mr. Treasurer," and then he stopped. For, of course there were no ladies and no gentlemen present. Mr. Secretary, nor Mr. Treasurer. He coughed and began once more.

"Tortoise friends and Turtles, I must defend myself and I have not a good shell. It doesn't help me to protect myself and so I must snap and so I must fight in order to get along in the world."

"It is true I am a hard fighter, I snap, oh, how I do snap!" But Tortoise friends and Turtles, I'm not afraid of anything. I'm brave, I am very, very brave. And that's a good thing."

All the tortoise friends and the turtles nodded their heads which were out of their shells quite a distance and said:

"Bravery is one of the best things in the world or in the zoo, and we wish you, Snapping Turtle, and all of us, to really see the same quality of yours."

"It is in a good thing to hear your teacher. When it is a bad one."

Farm Bureau Organization Committee Prepare for Protection of Farmers Against Vandalism—Luncheon at White Plains Thursday.

White Plains, N. Y., April 21. Preparing to stem the losses which begin in the open country with the coming of heavy motor traffic, members of the county Farm Bureau vigilance committees of Dutchess, Nassau, Orange, Rockland, Suffolk, Westchester and Ulster counties will meet in this city on Thursday, April 22, at 1 o'clock.

The meeting, a luncheon conference at the White Swan Inn, will be given over to plans for securing cooperation from town people to prevent the stealing of vegetables, fruits, and the like from farm property by motorists and others and to setting up vigilance service protection on every farm which needs it.

The vigilance service, a recent activity of the farm bureau federation, protects the property of farm bureau members by a system of rewards for information leading to the arrest of offenders on property posted with vigilance service signs.

That farmers do suffer heavy losses from the careless and unthinking banditry of motorists is a well established fact, particularly in fruit and vegetable growing regions. Several thousand vigilance service signs have been distributed in this state since January and it is expected that many thousands will be put up as the season advances. It is the hope of the committee, however, that through work with city clubs and schools the merely thoughtless motorist will be deterred from heedlessly helping himself to farm property so that it will be necessary to cause the arrest of only the deliberate offender.

Peter G. Ten Eyck of Albany, president of the State Farm Bureau Federation, will be present at the conference. W. H. Sanders of Perry, president of the Westchester County Farm Bureau Association, will preside. It is expected that some members of the state police will be present to explain how cases may be handled with that organization. E. A. Plattsburgh of Ithaca, secretary of the State Vigilance Committee, will outline how the vigilance service will function. Similar regional conferences will be held next week designated as Farm Vigilance Week, in Albany, Rochester, Binghamton, and Utica.

Today's Story in New York History

By Frederic A. Godcharles.

(Copyright, 1926, by the Author)

General Dix, Secretary of the Treasury, United States Senator and Governor of New York, Died April 21, 1879.

Early in January, 1861, President James Buchanan appointed John A. Dix, of New York city, secretary of the Treasury of the United States, which office he held until the end of the administration.

Within three days after the new cabinet minister had entered upon his duties, he signalled the closing days of Buchanan's administration by a memorable and patriotic act.

Secretary Dix found the department in a wretched condition, and proceeded with energy in the administration of it. Hearing of the tendency of the slave-labor states to seize United States property within their borders, he sent Humphill Jones, a special agent of his department, to secure for service revenue cutters at New Orleans, Mobile and Galveston.

Jones found the "Lewis Cass" in the hands of the insurgents at Mobile, and the "Robert McClelland," at New Orleans, was in command of Captain J. G. Breshwood, of the navy. Jones gave the captain an order from Dix to sail to the north. Breshwood absolutely refused to obey the order.

On January 29 Secretary Dix was advised by telegraph that Breshwood refused to obey his orders, and further that Mr. Hatch, the collector of the Port of New Orleans, sustained the rebellious captain.

Immediately on receipt of this information, and without consulting with anyone, Dix penned the order which has become historic. Dix instantly wired back, "Tell Lieut. Caldwell to arrest Capt. Breshwood, assume command of the cutter and obey the order I gave through you. If Capt. Breshwood, after arrest, undertakes to interfere with the command of the cutter, tell Lieut. Caldwell to consider him a mutineer and treat him accordingly. If anyone attempts to haul down the American flag, shoot him on the spot."

The secessionists in New Orleans had possession of the telegraph, and did not allow the dispatch to pass, and the "Robert McClelland" was handed over to the authorities of Louisiana.

As Secretary Dix's order was flashed over the land it thrilled every heart with hope that the temporizing policy of the administration had ended. The loyal people rejoiced, and a small medal was struck by private hands commemorative of the event, on one side of which was the Union flag, and around it the words, "The Flag of Our Union, 1862;" on the other, in two circles, the last clause of Dix's famous order.

John Adams Dix was born in Boscowen, N. H., July 24, 1798. He graduated from Brown University, and completed his studies in a French college in Montreal. He entered the army as a cadet at the outbreak of the War of 1812, and was an aide to his father, Lieutenant Colonel Timothy Dix at Fort Mifflin. He also attended classes at St. Mary's College, and in 1812 was appointed ensign, then promoted to lieutenant and was commissioned captain in 1825.

Young Dix studied law while in the army, and as his father died heroically at Chrysler's Field, Captain Dix assumed the care of his mother and her nine children.

He opened a law office in Coopers-town, N. Y., and soon became warmly engaged in politics. In 1820 Governor Throop appointed him Adjutant General of New York. In 1833 he was elected Secretary of State for New York. Chiefly through the exertions of Secretary Dix public libraries were introduced into school districts of the state.

In 1812 he was a member of the Assembly, and of the United States Senate from 1845 to 1849. In the latter body he embraced the issues of the Free Soil Party, whose candidate for governor he was in 1848.

In 1859 he was appointed Postmaster of New York city. On January 10, 1861, when Buchanan's cabinet was dissolved, at the urgent request of the leading bankers and financiers of New York, he was appointed Secretary of the Treasury by President Buchanan. His appointment immediately relieved the government from a financial deadlock, gave it the funds that it needed but had failed to obtain, and produced a general confidence in its stability.

On May 16, 1861 he was appointed major general of volunteers, and assigned as commander at Baltimore, then at Fortress Monroe, and on the Virginia peninsula. In September, 1862, he was placed in command of the Seventh Army Corps.

He was president of the Pacific Railway Company, and in 1866 was appointed minister to France, where he served until 1869. In 1872 he was elected governor of New York, and retired to private life at the end of his second term.

He was an able orator, and the author of many published works. General Dix died in New York city, April 21, 1879.

Ulster Garden Club Meeting

Well Known Landscape Architect and Lecturer Tells Club How to Get Best Effects in Their Gardens.

The Ulster Garden Club met on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. G. D. B. Maubrouck. The lecturer for the day was Miss Elia Rehman who is a landscape architect and lecturer at Vassar College and a writer for "House and Garden." She spoke on various problems connected with the garden.

First, Miss Rehman took up the matter of relating house and garden to each other. Some houses need trim, clipped hedges, brick walks or other formal methods of treatment, while other houses are informal and require only the most informal growing of lawn and garden.

Miss Rehman spoke at length on the matter of edging plants which give to a garden all its luxuriance and most of its informality. Pinks, nepots, veronica repens, phlox, primroses and saxifrage being much more the kind of things needed in the ordinary garden than box which when used as edging is more stiff and formal than the average house requires.

In the matter of enclosure, Miss Rehman advocated interclipped or unclipped hedges, the latter what American gardeners are more and more turning to because of the lack of labor and also because of the increasing regard for the sculptural value of all of the border trees, cedar, arbor vitae or hawthorne that are used for hedges. Miss Rehman stated that it was a well known rule in landscape architecture, never to have the garden in line with the view, and the axiom can only be disregarded in case the garden is used simply as a foreground to the view.

The mood of the garden is expressed by the flowers, a dramatic effect being attained with big flowers, whereas a lyric or tender effect is produced by small flowers or those where flowers and foliage are delicate both in form and color. In the sunny garden all the so-called sunflowers may be used, peonies, asters, zinnias, calendula, coreopsis, heleniums, whereas in the shady garden the effect depends upon flowers whose beauty is of foliage, violas, meadowrue, ferns and lilies.

The distribution of the flowers is another factor not to be overlooked. Flowers may be planted entirely in clumps which accent the color, in single plants which give a certain repeat and give delicacy in color or in a drift which is practically a line of color drawn through the border. The sequence of bloom is like a symphony in music. Sometimes we want a garden to be full of bloom, as sometimes we have all the instruments at once, while at other times we have only a slight bloom which is like the prelude of the symphony. Sometimes there are only a few scattered blossoms like the accents of the drums and then there are the pauses which give one a chance to see a new, full view more effectively.

Miss Rehman paid a tribute to Birge Harrison's book on the effect of broken color and said that gardeners were following painters in their study of color, problems of reflected light on color and shadow colors.

On May 4 the Ulster Garden Club will have a lecture by Mr. Wister on "European Gardens," given at St. John's Parish House on Wall street. This will be a public lecture free to all who are interested in gardens.

Quality Runs Rings Around Prices

APEALING prices are, of course, a very important and persuasive feature of Chandler and Cleveland motor cars—but most important and more persuasive are the greater appeals of their rich comfort, their style, their power, their long life, their economical upkeep!

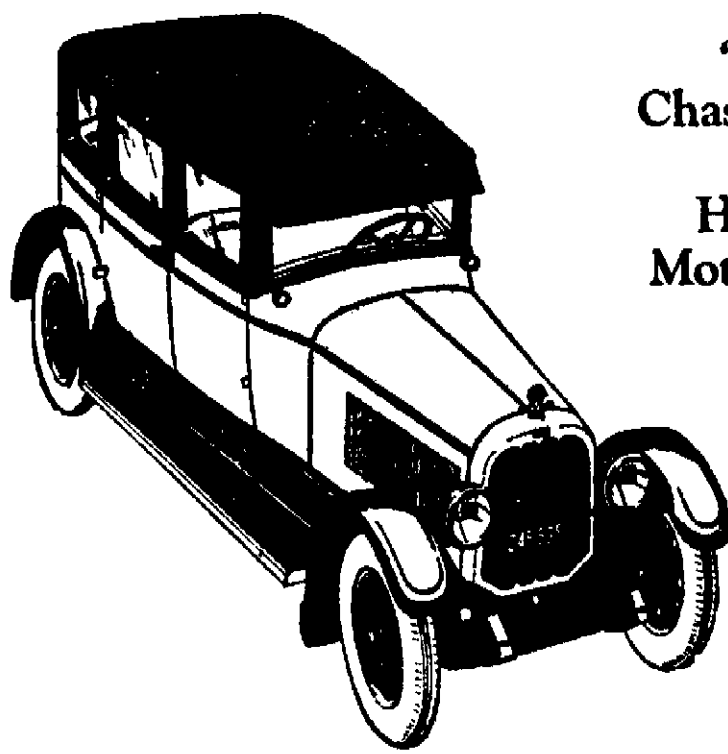

These great Sixes ably show what they are by what they can do. Quality shines out in performance.

The public has seen these two cars go out again and again, and win records in hill-climbing races, in non-stop speed runs, in gruelling endurance contests. To win once might be by accident; to win twice might be good luck; but to win consistently over and over again, clearly indicates their basic and inherent superiority.

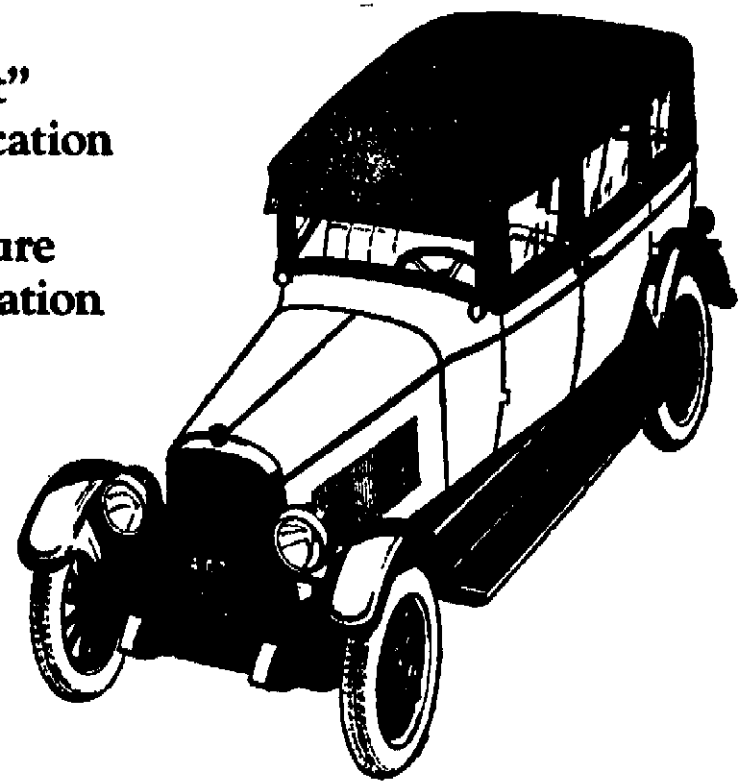

You can see superiority in these cars. Both have strapping big motors, with high-pressure lubrication: Chandler, its famous Pike's Peak Motor; Cleveland, its great Mileage Motor—both virile with power, and of the quiet "L" head design.

Both cars possess the "One Shot" System of centralized chassis lubrication. To oil the entire chassis all you do is to press a plunger with your heel, "One Shot" does the whole job instantly and thoroughly, relieving you of all work, uncertainty and cause for worry.

If you are intending to invest anywhere from $945 to $1995 in a motor car, reserve your final decision until you have inspected the new Chandler and Cleveland models. They will open your eyes wide to better things.

Industrial League To Open May 3

On May 3 the Industrial Baseball League of this city will open its season at the Athletic Field, as decided at a meeting held at the Chamber of Commerce rooms Tuesday evening.

The league decided to take in another team, which will make it a nine-team league. The league will now consist of the West Shore Railroad, Elder & Delaware Railroad, K. G. & E. Schillings, Artists, Van Slyke & Horton-Universal, Standard Oil, Municipal Nine and K. & M. Silk Mills.

Besides the loving cups for the first and second teams this year there will be prizes for the players hitting the most home runs, three-base hits and two-base hits, and for the best pitcher, the man who has the highest amount of stolen bases, and the most valuable player to his team.

The grounds are to be put in the best condition possible, and benches will be erected for the fans.

Tagging Major League Bases

The Yankees shelled Walter Johnson off the mound, slammed out twenty-two hits and swamped the Senators under an 18 to 5 score. Babe Ruth scored five runs and batted in eight, collecting two doubles, two singles and his first home run of the season.

By outslugging the White Sox, 3 to 5, Cleveland moved into a triple tie with the Yanks and Detroit for first place in the American League. Joe Shauts, Cleveland southpaw, pitched airtight ball until the ninth inning, when pinch-hitter Grabowski got a homer with two on.

The Tigers came from behind to nose out the Browns, 5 to 4. A miscue by Jacobson let in two runs and Van Gilder, pitching for St. Louis, forced in the winning run with a pass in the ninth.

Red Lucas, given the gate by the Giants and the Braves, turned in his second victory in as many starts as the Reds again polished off the Pirates, 5 to 2. Cincinnati is now in second place.

Wilbur Cooper of the Cubs whitewashed the Cardinals, 7 to 0. St. Louis dropping to third place. Hack Wilson contributed a homer.

Cool and sweet as mountain air

PRINCE ALBERT

—no other tobacco is like it!

HAVE you ever stood in the pine-fringed hills and tasted the wonderful mountain air? Then you know something of that cool, sweet taste of Prince Albert in a jimmy-pipe. There's promise in it . . . the feeling that everything's going to be all right from now on.

Prince Albert is more than a promise. It's a fulfillment! Just tuck a load of this wonderful tobacco into the bowl of your jimmy-pipe and light up. Pull that cool, comforting smoke deep down into your system and see the sun come out!

Every perfect puff tells you that here is the most genuinely friendly tobacco that ever tumbled into a briar. Friendly? Yes . . . friendly to your tongue and to your general disposition. P. A. can't bite and it can't parch, because the Prince Albert process won't let it!

Get yourself a tidy red tin of P. A. this very day. Throw back the hinged lid and revel in the fragrance of real tobacco. Then pack a load into your jimmy-pipe and light up. Get that taste that only Prince Albert can give you!

P. A. is sold everywhere in this and other, pound and half-pound tins, tins, and round crystal glass tins, with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of blue and purple removed by the Prince Albert process.

Rickard in Line For Big Loss

New York State Athletic Commission Will Revoke His License If He Disobeys Its Orders by Taking Dempsey-Tunney Fight Out of State.

(By David J. Walsh.)

New York, April 21.—Tex Rickard will be stripped of his New York interests, his license revoked and a $5,000,000 investment in Madison Square Garden jeopardized, if he takes the Dempsey-Tunney match to Jersey City, or any other hospitable home, in defiance of the wishes of the New York State Athletic Commission.

James A. Farley, its chairman, told the writer today that the penalty could not be less, in view of the stand the board has taken in the matter of insisting that Harry Wills be given the first shot at the championship. Farley made the statement in reply to a quoted interview with Rickard from Fort Worth in which the promoter referred to the Dempsey-Wills controversy as "old stuff" and declared his intention of signing Dempsey for a Tunney fight at Jersey City.

"If he does that, knowing full well our attitude, there will be only one course open to us," Farley declared. "Rickard will be declared out of boxing in this state. You can bank on that as long as I am chairman of this commission. My associates are with me in holding out for Wills as first challenger, so Rickard cannot hope to get away with anything."

It was pointed out to Farley that the revocation of Rickard's license automatically would kill boxing in the garden, where considerably less than a million dollars of the $5,000,000 construction debt has been obtained by the sale of the stock.

The stockholders of the corporation would be punished equally with Rickard.

"That's not our affair," Farley snapped. "Let them call their own bluff. We, the governing body of boxing, have laid down a just rule. We can do no less. Such a flagrant violation of authority, regardless of whether the violator is named as Rickard or John J. Jones or his investment totals five million dollars or five cents."

Thus, the writer might add, seems to cover the situation, as the boy said of the patch on his elbow, Rickard either must recede from his position or lose everything he has in this state. Somehow, I can seem to see him receding like the gums of those pitiful four out of every five who get pyorrhea before forty.

Of course, Rickard may have some smart information on the Dempsey-Wills-Tunney controversy that is unknown to Farley and the world at large. I suggested something of the kind to the chairman.

"He may think he knows something," was the come back. "But the only thing worth knowing, in the final show down, is that Rickard cannot put on a heavyweight championship bout without Harry Wills and preserve his standing with the authorities here."

BILLIARD CHAMPION TRAILS WAKEFIELD.

New York, April 21.—In spite of a rally that reduced his opponent's lead, Otto Reisel, world's three-cushion billiard champion, continued to trail Harry Wakefield, Pacific coast champion, at the start of the fifth block today of their exhibition 600-point match. The score was 280 to 195. Wakefield losing the lead yesterday afternoon when Reisel won, 57 to 41 in seventy-six innings, but regaining it in the evening by scoring 59 to Reisel's 45.

SEASON AT CLEVELAND OPENS WITH TIGERS.

Cleveland, O., April 21.—Tied for first place in the American League, Cleveland's own Indian Tribe came home today with a game with the Detroit Tigers. More than 20,000 fans were expected to turn out for the curtain raiser.

"Y" Plans For a Volley Ball Night

Thursday evening at 8 o'clock will be the last moment that a volley ball player will have to take part in the third popular volley ball night which will be held on Monday, April 26, at the local Y. M. C. A. It is necessary for all players to sign up at this date so that teams may be picked and the schedule arranged for the night's fun.

Every volley ball player in the city of Kingston is eligible to take part in this event. All that is necessary is to sign up with a member of the committee on or before Thursday evening.

Several big stunts to produce fun will be worked. Eats will be served in the form of a buffet luncheon from 6:30 to 8:30 p. m., thus doing away with the long wait until after the games, which was the only bad feature of the past volley ball nights.

Plenty of volley ball will be assured all players this time. A new scheme in the form of two leagues will be the plan this year, each team playing a round of games with the other teams in the league. Then a championship series with real prize for the winners.

Goosepimple Wiffeltree will arrive around 8:20 p. m., for his part of the program. His action promises fun as well as value for the money spent.

Male and female spectators are invited to witness the games and Mr. Wiffeltree's work.

The committee in charge of planning and staging up the men are Gordon Craig, chairman, Ted Young, Dr. J. Gifford and Chester Dolson.

CHICAGO HERE OF AMATEUR BOXING.

Chicago, April 21.—Amateur boxing contents may now be staged in Chicago without fear of police intervention, according to a ruling of Corporation Counsel Francis X. Ruch.

Under the new Illinois boxing bill, enacted by Chicago voters at a recent election, it had been believed that boxing shows could be staged until Governor Small had appointed a commission to regulate the sport.

But amateur exhibitions do not count, Ruch ruled, and need no other supervision than that the club or men responsible for the show, can give.

This will make the final game of a three-game series between these two clubs, each team having won a game.

The S. A. team will take the floor with the usual lineup chosen from Merritt, Joyce, Knight, Hyatt, Smith, Hoffman, DuBois and Halstead. Correction will handle the whistle for the contest which will begin at 8:30. A preliminary contest will be played between the Employed Boys of the Newburgh Y. M. C. A. and the local Employed Boys team.

Forty Rescued in Thrilling Fire

Salute Apartment House Frey to Flames—Police and Firemen Rescue Occupants in Their Night Clothes.

Chelsea, Mass., April 21.—Forty men, women and children, trapped in burning ten suite apartment house at No. 109 Washington street, were rescued by police and firemen while next door, Mrs. Abigail French, 60, an invalid, collapsed from fright and died. Two policemen and firemen were injured in bringing the forty persons from the blazing structure today.

Mrs. French, awakened by the smoke and flames at her bedroom window, made her way to the hallway of her home and collapsed. She died in an ambulance enroute to a hospital.

Woman Aroused Tenants

The fire in the apartment house was discovered by Mrs. Hannah Sullivan, occupant of a first floor suite. She called the fire department and then ran through the house, banging doors and arousing sleeping tenants. Flames, which had apparently started in an air shaft on the third floor and were working up and down, made rescue work difficult.

Three alarms had brought apparatus from all parts of the city, and from Revere and Everett.

Heroic rescues were made by police and firemen, who carried women and children down ladders and led others out through smoke-filled hallways.

Dog Prevented Rescue Work

Prince, a German police dog owned by Mrs. Bertha Burg, occupant of suite five, had to be clubbed by police when he prevented rescuing officers from entering the apartment.

Patrolman William C. Keating, who had made two rescue trips into the building, fell and injured his leg.

Patrolman George Lian on a rescue trip was overcome by smoke and had to be carried out by firemen.

Among those rescued was Morris Potter, owner of the building, and his wife and five children. They lived on the top floor of the block. Potter's son was missing and was reported burned to death but was later found in the home of a neighbor.

First Aid Rendered at Scene

Scores of physicians and nurses were at the scene and gave first aid to those injured.

Many of those rescued were in their night clothing. They were cared for in the home of Mrs. M. L. King and others nearby.

Fire Lieutenant William Huro carried out Harry Underwood, an invalid, and then went back into the burning building and rescued Underwood's money.

St. Louis, Mo., April 21.—"I don't want to start a fight with the New York Racing Commission. I am just trying to sign Jack Dempsey to a contract. He related to the court how his companions, Charles Clifford and Louis Yarrington were killed, and himself wounded, by the fusillade of shots which accompanied the hold-up.

Meyer exhibited extreme nervousness as he testified.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 21.—The rally in industrial stocks today, led by the motor and local traction stocks, was the most impressive forward movement of the month to date. The shorts in the motor stocks were driven to cover and the speculative buying of the traction stocks created unusual activity in that section of the market.

The most impressive buying was in the motor and traction company stocks. The State Transit Board is expected to expedite the granting of franchises for local bus routes. Hudson, Mack Trucks and General Motors sold up from 2 to 3 points, while Studebaker, White and other active motor shares were fractionally higher. Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit and Third Avenue sold up about 2 points each.

Atlantic Coast Line, responding to the extra $1,500 dividend on the common stock, sold up 8 points to 195, in the lead of the railroad shares. Atchafalaya gained 3 at 130.

Price trends in the oil stocks, the mercantile stocks, the equipments and the specialties were all higher. United States Steel sold up to 120 1/2; coppers were reactionary, but recovered later in the day; specialties were also firm in the late trading.

DAIRY

FEED DAIRY COWS LIBERALLY PAYS

Many dairymen are finding that it is more profitable to feed good cows liberally than to feed a larger number of cows poorly or only fairly well. It is a common observation among dairymen that good cows will return a profit on all the feed they will eat if the ration is well balanced.

Cow-test association records repeatedly show that the greatest returns over feed costs are made by the cows which consume the largest amount of feed.

Tests made by the dairy department at the Ohio experiment station show that good cows fed more liberally than is the general practice not only produce more milk and butterfat than the same cows on the ordinary ration, but produce a larger amount at a lower cost per pound.

The average annual butterfat production of these cows fed a ration ordinarily considered ample was 330 pounds. On the more generous ration the average production of the same cows was 568 pounds.

As the amount of feed used for maintaining the animals was practically the same in both cases, the greater part of the additional feed in the liberal ration was available for production.

Not all cows will use the extra feed for milk production; some of limited productive capacity will not permit liberal feeding or will turn the extra feed into bodily fat. In neither of these cases is liberal feeding profitable and with such cows ordinary feeding will likely prove unprofitable.

Dairy Cows Need Plenty of Water to Make Milk

Water in the dairy cow's ration cannot be overemphasized, because it represents seven-eighths of the contents which go in the milk pail. A shortage of water will cut down the milk supply more quickly than will a shortage of any particular feed.

Tests at experiment stations show that a cow will consume from 3 to 4 pounds of water to each pound of dry matter. If the cow is producing 4 to 5 gallons of milk she will need more than that quantity of water.

The average animal in the herd will consume 12 gallons or 100 pounds of water each day. One cow on test at the Missouri station giving 110 pounds of milk daily consumed 550 pounds or 66 gallons of water in a day.

Water is more often the limiting factor in production during cold snaps. The two things which affect the quantity a cow can drink are the temperature of the water and the number of times she drinks. No digestive system, even a cow's, can take 100 pounds of ice water at one time and not be disturbed.

Age to Breed Heifer Is Important to Dairymen

The age to breed the dairy heifer will depend somewhat upon the development of the particular animal in question. If the individual is well grown and has a tendency to lay on fat, she should be bred at an earlier age than one not so well grown and showing less tendency to condition readily. The well-developed Jersey should be bred to drop her first calf when not more than 28 months of age, better yet 24 months if possible. The heifer of slower growth and less vigor should be allowed about 4 months longer.

The aim among dairymen is to put the young heifer on the paying list early in life without permanently injuring the individual. If bred too young the energies of the heifer are devoted to the foetus, later milk yielding, with the result that the growth is greatly hindered and often stunted. The breeding time for young heifers is very important and should be considered if you expect the animal to do her best.

Dairy Facts

A gallon of milk weighs about eight and a half pounds.

All grains or concentrates make better feed if they are ground.

A cow ordinarily eats from 30 to 40 pounds of silage per day and from 10 to 20 pounds of hay.

In most cases at present, it is poor economy to try to get along with farm-grown feeds exclusively.

Feeds can be mixed in lots of several hundred pounds by shoveling back and forth on a tight floor.

Improperly ventilated barns are not only harmful to the cows, but often cause odors to get into the milk during the milking process.

One of the biggest difficulties in balancing up the dairy ration is that most of the feeds are high in carbohydrates and fat but lacking in protein.

The dairymen who overlooks the gains for his dairy cattle is decreasing his efficiency and increasing his costs in the production of dairy products.

FORBIDS PUBLICITY STUNT ARRESTS.

Boston, April 21.—As a climax to the arrest and release of Henry L. Mencken, editor of the American Mercury, on the charge that an article in his magazine called "Hatrack" was indecent, Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson today ordered all police stations to notify him first before cooperating with the Watch and Ward Society or its agent, J. Frank Chase.

Commissioner Wilson said if he had known about the pre-arranged meeting of Chase and Mencken on Boston Common, he would not have permitted the arrest at that stage of the "Hatrack" case prosecution.

What the Auto Pays in Taxes

State Motor Vehicle Taxes Increased 33.2 Per Cent in 1926 as Compared With 13.4 Per Cent Increase in Registration.

Washington, D. C., April 21.—While the total increase of motor vehicle registration for the United States in 1925 was 13.4 per cent, the increase in the total amount of special taxes (exclusive of the personal property tax) collected from motor vehicle owners by the 48 states and the District of Columbia was 33.2 per cent.

This is one of the significant facts brought out in connection with the issuance from the national headquarters of the American Automobile Association today of its motor vehicle registration and taxation map for the year 1925. Among other things the map shows:

First, the average per vehicle tax levy for the entire country was $26 in 1925 as compared with $17.35 in 1924, an increase of 50 per cent in a period of twelve months. The per vehicle tax has increased 133 per cent since 1919, when it stood at $8.55.

Second, special taxes collected from car owners by the states reached a new high peak last year, with a total of $406,648,561 as compared with $305,266,712 in 1924, an increase of $101,381,849.

Third, the states' revenue from the gasoline tax almost doubled in 1925, the total being $146,028,940 as compared with $79,734,789 the previous year.

Five states had more than a million registrations in 1925, these maintaining the same order as they had the previous year. They were: New York with 1,625,583; California, 1,440,581; Ohio, 1,246,400; Pennsylvania, 1,239,433; and Illinois, 1,263,177. Two other states made a valiant effort to get to the million class, namely, Michigan with 989,019 and Texas with 975,083.

In state fees, drivers' licenses and gasoline taxes, the highest five were: Pennsylvania with $30,279,770; New York, $25,506,215; California, $22,773,087; Michigan, $22,762,080; and Ohio, $22,157,181.

In the amounts collected from gas tax, California with $14,956,789 led the list; next came Ohio with $9,009,950; Michigan, $8,236,078; Pennsylvania, $8,352,789; and Florida, $7,657,597.

The five states with the highest per vehicle tax were: North Carolina, $42; Florida, $39; South Carolina, $37; Oregon (where motor vehicle is exempt from personal property taxes), $31; and Arkansas, $35. Illinois with $19 had the lowest per vehicle tax levy.

FASHION'S MESSAGES ARE IN DOTS AND DASHES THIS SPRING—THE DOTS IN ANY SIZE OR GROUPING SPEAK SMARTNESS.

"After all old things are best," said some poet or another, and so perhaps that is why the old familiar polka dot is being received like a long lost friend. Molyneux, as the sketch seems to prove conclusively, has some clever ideas on utilizing printed fabrics, bringing plain ones into play where printed ones might prove disastrous. The slenderizing points help also in offsetting any tendency prints have to make one appear larger.

The first enthusiasm for prints, especially those of floral persuasion, is of course spent, and there has been the usual reaction to plain fabrics. Just as one was about to eschew prints, along came polka dots in graduated effects, in interesting groupings and in the old familiar polka or coin dot arrangement.

The Molyneux Frock Sponsors Polka Dots, of Navy or White Chiffon. The Wide Grille Effects a Bloused Silhouette and the Bodice Yoke Describes a V Formation.

Red on white seems to be the universal favorite with green next in favor, all of which of course leads eventually to navy, navy and white being old associates of the polka dot.

It is refreshing to see transparent georgette and chiffons again after several seasons of materials too clever to be seen through. With the re-entrance of the georgette dress comes the one which combines georgette and taffeta. If these materials are not actually combined, one has perhaps the wisdom to select a taffeta coat to top the frock of Georgette—a quieted taffeta. If one is careful to follow suit literally in the game of being well dressed. (Copyright 1926, Fairchild Newspaper Service.)

SAILORS INJURED WHEN MOTORCYCLE HITS AUTO

Andover, Mass., April 21.—Three sailors from the U. S. S. Florida, driving in a motorcycle and side car, crashed head-on into a touring car today in front of the Andover Academy buildings. Louis Jennings, 25, the driver, was severely injured. James Rondeau and Samuel S. Thomas, those in the side car, escaped with minor injuries. All were removed to Lawrence General Hospital. The touring car, driven by Joseph A. Jordan, of Methuen, was damaged.

MINERS AND OPERATORS TO RESUME NEGOTIATIONS.

London, April 21.—The coal miners and operators, who are deadlocked over future wage agreements when the coal subsidy of the government expires on May 1, have agreed to resume negotiations tomorrow, it was announced today.

Premier Baldwin is understood to have been influential in bringing the disputing parties together again in an effort to avert the strike which threatens.

Indian Princess For Schubert Club

The Schubert Choral Club will hold its spring concert on Monday evening, May 3, in the High School Auditorium when they will have as their soloist Princess Te Ata.

The princess is the daughter of a Cherokee Indian chief and is a young woman of great charm. She will appear in costume and will not only sing Indian melodies, but will give some of the distinctive Indian dances. She has been appearing at concerts throughout the winter and just last week took part in a special performance given by the Three Arts Club of New York city at the Ritz Theatre. The club feels it has been particularly fortunate in securing Princess Te Ata and her appearance will be of real interest and enjoyment.

Tickets for the concert are already on sale and may be secured from any member of the club.
